Research Profile

Research is my main line, with interests concentrated in anthropology, material culture and iconography: history taught me to question through primary sources and the site itself, art history to read images and date them, anthropology to put objects and ritual back among the people who make them. Three threads run through my work — funerary architectural imagery and Sino-Western visual hybridity in Macao; intangible heritage, fieldwork and oral history in western Guangdong and eastern Guizhou; and the production and identity of the Jingdezhen handicraft community. To date: two journal articles, one master’s thesis, five international conference presentations.

Research interests: Material Culture & Handicraft • Funerary Architecture & Iconography • Intangible Heritage, Fieldwork & Oral History • Digital Safeguarding of Cultural Heritage • Area Studies & Cross-Cultural Exchange
